Panel Discussion on
Teaching and Learning of Design at IDC

Wednesday, 21 August 2013, 4PM

F. C. Kohli Auditorium

Students and faculty shall share some of their insights and challenges in teaching and learning at IDC. How have approaches in design education been different from those in the other departments? How does one go about “teaching” creativity? And how does one evaluate responses whose strength often lies in their peculiar subjectivity? What have been the changes in teaching methods with the addition of newer programmes? How are large classes handled at IDC? How does the doctoral programme envisage itself considering that design has traditionally regarded “research” as something that was fused with the act of design?

All are welcome
