

MedImage-2014

December 14, 2014, IISc Bangalore, India

Call For Papers

Medical images form the basis of diagnostics, therapy planning and discovery in biomedical research. Processing of such images/videos poses a range of challenges due to the progress in this field with development of a wide range of modalities. The critical nature of the applications demand robust solutions to several problems.

The 3rd edition of this day-long workshop will be a forum where experts will be disseminating recent advances and developments in the field and researchers will present new ideas and solutions for relevant problems.

Medimage 2014 invites submissions which will be reviewed and selected papers will be invited for oral presentation. Submissions can include

- Unpublished work reporting original contributions and new results. Authors are free to publish their work elsewhere after the workshop. Such manuscripts must not exceed 6 pages and follow the same format as prescribed for ICVGIP.
- A summary of one's own previously published work, highlighting contributions made. Such manuscripts must not exceed 2 pages, excluding references.

Topics of interest include, but is not limited to:

- Medical Image Computing
- Computer aided diagnosis
- Medical Informatics
- Medical Visualization
- Clinical applications

The workshop will not publish any proceedings.
